Your job ad and website struck a cord in my heart, I hope to do the same

First impressions are important, and I'm hoping this letter will stick with you. I pride myself in being really creative, very fast paced, and proactive. I consider myself to be obsessed with programming as well as art and design. I am hungry for experience and projects where I'm creating and coding beautiful, easy to read, responsive websites.

I've been a very self-motivated learner the past few years and have cleared out of a lot of distractions from my life to focus on programming which has always been really important to me. I am spending most of my free time teaching myself react.js at the moment and related languages. I'd like to take to take the knowledge I have, and my crazy drive, and apply it to something worthwhile as a project. Just from looking at your ad and your website I feel like I would rise to the occasion and learn a lot.

I've been working a lot with adobe creative cloud, figma (where I'm designing this), wordpress, and react.js this year. I'm admittedly a bit new to the field, but that just means I'm willing to work hard to prove myself and learn as I go. Anyways, thanks for reading through this, cheers.
